

Refugee youth
from Burma need your help!

Running to safety

Sein-Win is a Christian from the Chin tribe in Burma (Myanmar). He was at school when soldiers attacked his village and killed his parents. He ran into the jungle where he lived for months before making his way to Malaysia. After a long wait, he was given refugee status and sent to the United States. He was 15.

“My family has been blessed by our relationship with Sein-Win,” says his foster mother. “He is kind, polite and a devout Christian.”

Lutheran Social Services of Michigan is getting ready to welcome more youth like Sein-Win. They need foster homes in Detroit, Ann Arbor, Lansing and Battle Creek.

Children need your help! See ideas on back.

You can be a foster parent to a refugee youth

“Their stories break your heart, but you can see their strength. Their level of gratitude is unbelievable, and they make 100 percent effort in everything they do.”

Foster mother of four Burmese youth

- You can work outside the home - or not.
- You can have children of your own - or not.
- You must be able to provide a bed and 40 square feet of bedroom space for each foster child.
- You must have an income that can provide for your own family’s needs.
- Lutheran Social Services will provide training so you can be licensed as a foster parent.

Lutheran Social Services will also provide:

- Monthly reimbursement for the child’s food, clothing and other needs.
- Medical and dental care for the child, and therapy as needed.
- English-language training for the child.
- Tutors and translators.
- Ongoing training and support for foster parents.
